Below are listed the exhibits that may be introduced by the parties in the above-captioned trial. The list is organized as follows:

- Exhibits listed at numbers 1-120 are exhibits the United States may introduce in its case in chief to which the Defendant has said he does not object. Within that list, Exhibits 65-85 are documents the Defendant has claimed are privileged but that the Court has previously said are admissible. The Defendant has agreed that the documents may be admitted subject to his objection to the Court's ruling.
- Exhibits 121- 127 are exhibits the Defendant may introduce to which the United States has said it will not object.
- Exhibits 200-204 are additional documents the Defendant claims are privileged that the Defendant may introduce at trial to which the United States does not intend to object. The United States, however, has reserved its right to argue that any use of those documents constitutes a waiver of any privilege entitling the United States to introduce other documents that the Defendant may claim remain subject to the privilege or for purposes of completeness.
- Exhibits 205-211 are additional documents the Defendant claims to be privileged that the Defendant may introduce at trial to which the United States objects. The United States also reserves its rights as to waiver and completeness as set forth above for exhibits 200-204.
